

Sam Yuk Middle School

SAM YUK MIDDLE SCHOOL. A coeducational boarding and day school in Hong Kong, operated on the junior and senior high school level in English and Cantonese under the direction of the South China Island Union Mission. In 1992 there was an enrollment of 200 students in secondary forms 1—5 and a teaching staff of 15. The school is registered with the Education Department of Hong Kong and is supported primarily by government tuition grants. Ten percent of the students are Seventh-day Adventists. The school shares facilities with Hong Kong Adventist College, which is located on a 40-acre (16-hectare) site on Clearwater Bay Road, Kowloon, Hong Kong.

The school began in 1903 in south China as the first Seventh-day Adventist school taught in Chinese. It was originally located in Canton (now Guangzhou) but moved to Hong Kong in 1937 and then to the present location in 1939. (For a full history of the early years of the school and for principals before 1984, see Hong Kong Adventist College.)

Since 1984 the school has functioned independently from Hong Kong Adventist College, although the president of the college often serves as principal of the secondary school.

Principals (since 1984): Doris Foo, 1984—1989; Handel Luke, 1989—1991; Roger P. W. Li, 1991—.